

How to read tablature

You read tablature as you read a book, that is from left to right. The numbers tell you which fret (space) you should press down. 0 means to play without holding down a fret. If there is more than one number vertically then you should play them at the same time.

```
A |-----0-----|
E | -0---1---3-----|
C |-----0-----|
G |-----|
```

So the line at the bottom is the top string on the ukulele when you're sitting down with it in your lap (the thickest string). Then the letters G C E A is the name of the strings in the most common way of tuning it.
